Poetry.

MR. JOHNSON AT ANTIETAM'

The following poem, appropriately expressing Mr. Johnson's feelings at the Antietam celebration on Tuesday, might have been spoken as one of the "poems" for the occasion. It appeared in the Wilmington COMMERCIAL of September 19:

My name is Andy Dictator [this is the place to cheer],
I'm living high at Washington, 'mid whiskey, gin and beer,
My sceptre is extended to every "F. F. V.,"
Or any Northern Copperhead who'll give three cheers for me.

[All hands "smile."]

I was not always President, but once I kept shop,
I "shoved my "goose" of trade along the back of many a fop;
They did not call me Doctor, no; although I gave them fits,
And used to cut their breasts and arms, and cabbage all the bits.

[Cries of "Good," "good," and drinks for the crowd.]

But, friends, you took me from my shop, and gave me living fat,
You raised me to be Governor; I'm 'bliged to you for that,
The Union men they thought me true, and you, boys, thought me queer,
Because I swore I'd hang you up for traitors. Never fear.

You know I didn't mean a word of anything I said;
'Twas "policy," d'ye see, my friends, to butter my own bread,
You know my heart was with the South, "My own, my native land;"
I wished to see her free, my boys. [Here music by the band.]

[Great cheering, and drinks.]

"My policy" succeeded, boys, and when they chose a head
One of our crue, the noble Booth [tears] he wished old Aby dead;
And so he up and shot old Abe—a lucky shot for me,
For it gained me to the President of this great countryee.

[A voice, "Hurray fur Mishther Jansun."]

And now that I am President I'll pardon all my friends,
Dear rebels, if I've done you spite, come now, I'll make amends,
And you, dear Northern Copperheads, just wear a smiling face,
'Cause patriots shan't hold office, for you shall take their place.

Now don't get shaky, Brother Rebs, at what the "Rumps" shall do,
'Cause 'tis not constitutional, I know, to punish you.
I'll veto all that Congress does, and show them I am boss,
Count all their acts as nothingness, and treat their words as dross.

And if they don't impeach me, boys, we'll have this country yet,
The "niggers" shall be slaves again; we'll get rich by their sweat,
And Cotton shall be King, my boys; we'll loot it o'er the "Yanks,"
(Hic) That is all I have to say; I give you many thanks.

(Music—Bonnie Blue Flag—while all hands liker.)

THE patient of a "root and herb" medicine man got the following prescription from him for a bad cold: "Putcher feet in hot watter, gotobed and drink a pint of loot." The patient brought the enigma to us in despair. "I can make out the first part well enough," he said. "Put your feet in hot water, go to bed and drink a pint—that is plain enough. But what is loot?" We were embarrassed at first, but a happy inspiration struck me—L—oo—t—double o—too—older blow tea. And that turned out to be the explanation.

AT a Sunday school celebration recently, on Long Island, an infant four years old recited one hundred and eleven verses of St. Mark's Gospel. She is a very "pale faced child."—Ex.

The parents of the "pale-faced child" are ambitious of a heavenly crown for their baby; a good blow on the overworked little brain would be a shorter but no surer road to the end.

THE Chicago Times calls upon Democrats all over the country, to make up a purse for Mrs. Lincoln. Evening Journal replies that they had better finish the monument to Douglass began with such flourishing trumpets, months, ago. Says the Journal, let them attend to their own family affairs before making up for their neighbors, and keep simpathies where they are more needed.

FEMALE clerks, it is reported by a foreign correspondent of the New York Knickerbocker, are extensively employed in Europe. He says the women do nearly all the trading in Ireland, and the same custom prevails in Great Britain and France. He praises their general attention and the care they are always found to exhibit for their employers' interest.

ENGLISH race horses are valuable to their owners. Up to the date of the St. Ledger race, Hermit had run nine races and won seven, gaining in stakes £12,715. Vauban at the same date had run twenty-six races, of which he won sixteen, brining his master $15,737. This is of cousre without regard to money won by wages. How many horses have brought ruin to their owners?

AN exchange very truthfull remarks that whether the people will it or not, a local paper is their representative abroad, their embassador in foreign parts, by which they muss be judged. Let them, then, take a patriotic interest in giving it news, co-operation and patronage. Like every other duty performed, it will be their gain in the long run.

SUGGESTIVE.—Some wise man takes the following view of the economy question:

"When you see a man spending two or three dollars a week foolishly, the chances are five to one that he'll live long enough to know how many cents there are in a dollar; if he don't he is pretty sure to bequeath that privilege to his widow."

"NOT INVITED."—We notice from an exchange that this was the reply given by a farmer to a tradesman, when asked, "why don't you trade with me?" "I have looked over your local paper thoroughly, and do not find an invitation. Do you advertise? I am not accustomed to go where I am not invited."

THE NEWSPAPER.—Henry Ward Beecher speaks thus of the newspaper:

"The newspaper—it never grows tired. It never wears spectacles. It never grows old. It is renewed every morning, and is fresh every evening. It goes everywhere. It penetrates the forest, the mine, and the very shanty of the furthest settler.

A PRINTER not long since, having been "flung" by his sweetheart, went to the office to commit suicide with the "shooting stick." the thing wouln't go off. The "devil," wishing to perfect him, told him to go into the sanctum where the editor was writing duns to delinquent subscribers. He says the picture of dispair reconciled him to his fate.

"NAT, what are you leaning over that empty cask for?"

"I'm mourning over departed spirits."

EARNING A WIFE.

BY MARY GRACE HALPINE.

"And so you want to marry my daughter, young man," said farmer Blifkin, removing the pipe from his mouth, and looking at the young fellow sharply from head to toe.

Despite his rather indolent, effeminate air, which was mainly the result of his education, Luke Jordan was a fine looking fellow, and not easily moved from his self-possession; but he colored and grew confused beneath that sharp, scrutinizing look.

"Yes, sir. I spoke to Miss Mary last evening, and she—refered me to you."

The old man's face softened.

"Molly is a good girl, a very good girl," he said, stroking his chin with a thoughtful air, "and she deserves a good husband. What can you do?"

The young man looked rather blank at this abrupt inquiry.

"If you refer to my ability to support a wife, I can assure you——"

"I know you are a rich man, Luke Jordan, but I take it for granted that you asked my daughter to marry you, not your property. What guarantee can you give me, in case it should be swept away, as it is in thousands of instances, that you could provide for her a comfortable home? You have hands and brains—do you know how to use them? Again I ask, what can you do?"

This was a stile of catechism for which Luke was quite unprepared, and he stared blankly at the questions without speaking.

"I believe you managed to get through college—have you any profession?"

"No, sir; I thought——"

"Have you any trade?"

No, sir; my father thought that with the wealth I should inherit, I should not need any."

"Your father thought like a fool, then. He'd much better have given you some honest occupation and cut you off with a shilling—it might have been the making of you. As it is, what are you fit for? Here you are, a strong, able bodied young man, twenty-four years old, and never earned a dollar in your life! You ought to be ashamed of yourself."

"And you want to marry my daughter," resumed the old man after a few vigorous puffs at his pipe. "Now I've given Molly as good advantages for learning as any girl in town, and she hasn't thrown 'em away; but if she didn't know how to work, she'd be no daughter of mine. If I choose, I could keep more than one servant; but I don't no more than I choose that my daughter should be a pale spiritless creature, full of dyspesia and all manner of fine lady ailments, instead of the smiling, bright rosy-cheeked lass she is. I did say that she should marry no lad that had been cursed with a rich father, but she's taken a foolish liking to ye, and I'll tell ye what I'll do; go to work and prove yourself to be a man; perfect yourself in some occupation—I don't care what, so it be honest; then come to me, and if the girl is willing she is yours."

As the old man said this, he deliberately knocked the ashes out of his pipe against the pillar of the porch where he was sitting, tucked it into his vest pocket, and went into the house.

Pretty Mary Blifkins was waiting to see her lover down at the garden gate, their usual trysting place. The smiling light faded from her eyes as she noticed his sober, discomfited look.

"Father means well," she said, as Luke told her the result of his application.

And I'm not sure but what he is about right," she resumed after a thoughtful pause, "for it seems to me that every man, be he rich or poor, ought to have some occupation."

Then, she noticed her lover's grave look, she added softly:

"Never mind; I'll wait for you Luke."

Luke Jordan suddenly disappeared from his accustomed haunts, much to the surprise of his gay associates. But whereever he went, he carried with him in his exile these words, and which were like a tower of strength to his soul, "I'll wait for you, Luke."

One pleasant,, sunshiny morning, late in October, as farmer Blifkins was proping up the grape vine in his front-yard, that threatened to break down with the weight of its luxurious burdens, a neat looking cart drove up, from which Luke Jordan alighted with a quick, elastic spring, quite a contrast to his formally easy leisurely movements.

"Good morning, Mr. Blifkins. I understood that you wanted to by some butter-tubs and cider barrels. I think I have some here that will just suit you."

"Whose make are they?" inquired the old man, as, opening the gate, he paused by the wagon.

"Mine," replied Luke, with an air of pardonable pride; "and I ch allenge any cooper in the State to beat them."

Mr. Blifkins examined them critically one by one.

"They'll do," he said, coolly, as he set down the last of the lot. "What will ye take for them?"

"What I asked you for six months ago to-day—your daughter, sir."

The roguish twinkle in the old man's eyes broadened into a smile.

"You've got the right metal in you after all," he cried. "Come in, lad, —come in. I shouldn't wonder if we made a trade, after all."

Nothing loth, Luke obeyed.

"Molly!" bawled Mr. Blifkins, thrusting his head into the kitchen door.

Molly tripped out into the entry. The round, white arms were bared above the elbows, and bore traces of the flour she had been sifting.

Her dress was neat gingham, over which was tied a blue checked apron; but she looked as winning and lovely as she always did whenever she was found.

She blushed and smiled as she saw Luke, and then, turning her eyes upon her father, waited, dutifully, to hear what he had to say.

The old man regarded his daughter for a moment with a quizzical look.

"Molly, this young man—mayhap you've seen him before—has brought me a lot of tubs and barrels, all of his own make—a right good articale, too. He asks a pretty steep price for 'em; but if you are willin, to give it, well and good; and hark ye, my girl' whatever bargain you make your old father will ratify."

As Mr. Blifkins said this, he considerately stepped out of the room, and we will follow his example. But the kind of bargain the young people made can readily be conjectured by the speedy wedding that followed.

Luke Jordan turned his attention to the study of medicine, of which profession he became a useful and influential member; but every year, on the anniversary of his marrage, he delights his father-in-law by some specimen of the handicraft by which he won what he declairs to be "the best tnd dearest wife in the world."

SEARCH FOR A RETAIL STORE.

A green-appearing genius, on his first visit to this city, observed a sign over a store thus, "Wholesale and Retail Store." He worked his way through the crowd of ladies until he faced one of the clerks, who was exhibiting some articles to a young lady, when he broke out with—

"Say, Mister, who's boss here?"

"The proprietor has just stepped out, sir."

"Well, is this a re-tailing shop?"

"Yes, sir, a wholesale and retail store."

"Guess you understand your trade."

"O yes," replied the clerk, wrapping up a bundle for his lady customer, "what can I do for you?"

"Well, as the cold weather is coming on, I thought I might as well come and give you a job."

"I don't understand you, sir," replied the clerk, who began to think that the fellow was in the wrong box.

"Zactly so; well, I'll tell you."

"Explain what you mean, my friend," said the clerk, as he saw him produce a bundle from under his coat.

"Well, as I said before, the cold weather's coming on, I thought I might as well be fixin' for it. Come mighty near freezin' t'other winter, tell ye I did; but—

"I hope you may tell what you want, so I may serve you."

"Certainly, squire, certainly; I always do business in a hurry; and just as quick as the old master will let you I want you to re-tail these old shirts. Let them come down about the knee, kase I don't wear drawers."

The effect may be imagined, but, as novelists say; can't be described. The loud burst of laughter which followed served to convince the poor fellow he had committed himself, and his long legs ware put in motion for the door.

DROVERS AGAINST FOPS.

Dinner was spread in the cabin of the peerless steamer, the New World, and a splendid company were assembled about the table. Among the passengers thus prepared for gastronomic duty was a little creature of the genuine fop species, decked daintily as an early butterfly, with kids of irreproachable whiteness, miraculous necktie, and spider like quizzing glass on his nose, and the delicate animal turned his head affectionately aside with:

"Waitah!"

"Sah?"

"Bring me a powpellah of a female woostah."

"Yes sah!"

"And, waitah, tell the steward to wub my plate with a wegetable called onion, which will give delicious flavaw to my dinnah."

While the refined exquisite was giving his order, a jolly Western drover had listened with open mouth and protruding eyes. When the diminutive creature paused, he brought his fist down upon the table with a force that made every dish bounce, and then thundered out:

"Here, you gol darned ace of spades!"

"Yes sah."

"Bring me a thundering big plate of skunk's gizzards!"

"Sah!"

"And, old ink pot, tuck a horse blanket under my chin, and rub me down with brickbats while I feed."

The poor dandy showed a pair of straight tails instanter, and the whole table joined in a tremendous roar.

IN this neighborhood there are a great many persons who have a perfect mania for attending sales, and like Mr. Toodles, purchase nearly every useless article which their eyes see, thinking doubtless, like her, that some day or other "how handy it will be to have it in the house."

THE SAILOR AND THE ACTRESS.

"When I was a poor girl," said the duchess of St. Albans, "working very hard for my thirty shillings a week, I went down to Liverpool during the holidays, where I was always kindly received. I was to perform in a new piece, a pretty little affecting drama; and in my character I represented a poor, friendless orphan girl, reduced to the most wretched poverty. A heartless tradesman prosecutes the sad heroine for a heavy debt, and insists on putting her in prison, unless some one will be bail for her. The girl replies, "Then I have no hope, I have not a friend in the world." "What! will no one be bail for you to save you from prison?" asks the stern creditor. "I have told you I have not a friend on earth," was my reply. But just as I was uttering the words, I saw a sailor in the upper gallery, springing over the railing, letting himself down from one tier to another, until he bounded clear over the orchestra and footlights, and placed himself beside me in a moment. "Yes, you shall have one friend, at least, my poor young woman," said he, with the greatest expression in his honest, sunburnt countenance. "I will go bail for you to any amount. And as for you, (turning to the frightened actor,) if you don't bear a hand and shift your mooring, you lubber, it will be worse for you when I come athwart your bows." Every creature in the house rose; the uproar was perfectly indescribable; peals of laughter, screams of terror, cheers from his tawny messmates in the gallery; preparatory scrapings of violins from the orchestra; and amidst the universal din there stood the unconscious cause of it, sheltering me, "the poor, distressed young woman," and breathing defiance and destruction against my mimic persecutor. He was only persuaded to relinquish his care of me by the manager's pretending to arrive and rescue me, with a profusion of theatrical bank notes.

RICHMOND.

The Trial of Jeff. Davis—Line of Proceedings.

RICHMOND, October 7.—The following facts relative to the coming trial of Jeff. Davis are from the best authority: The trial is set for the fourth Monday of November, and as the Government will not interfere, there will be no postponement by counsel on either side. The offense of levying war against the United States will be testified to by Judge Scarborough, of Norfolk, Hon. John Good, member of the Confederate Congress, and Captain Henderson, who were compelled to appear before the Norfolk Grand Jury and testify to the facts upon which the indictment was made. There will be very few if any witnesses for the defense. The fact of levying war being admitted, the prosecution will then proceed with the legal argument that the prisoner is guilty of treason, and counsel for the defense will argue that he being a citizen of a State and under its law, a prior allegiance was due to it, not to the United States. It has been positively asserted that Judge Chase would preside, but as the Supreme Court commences its session on the first Monday of December, this is not possible. The trial is expected to last several weeks.

HOW TO HAVE MEALY POTATOES.—We find the following credited to the Germantown Telegraph: It is a very common thing in the Spring to find strong, watery potatoes on the table, unless care has been taken to select and preserve them. A poor potato is the poorst article of food that can be had; as soon as they begin to sprout they will begin to grow poor and watery, the better part of the root going to the support of sprouts; hence, to have mealy nice potatoes, it is necessary to keep them from exhausting themselves in this way. An exchange gives the following method of preventing the potatoes from sprouting, which we hope will be tried and approved: Take good, sound potatoes and place them in a tub or barrel, and pour boiling water over them, letting them, remain in the water until the eyes are scalded so they will not sprout; dry the potatoes thoroughly in the sun, and put them away in a box or barrel in a cool, dry place. This will give good mealy potatoes all the time.

LITTLE SAVINGS.—We heard once of an agent for a missionary society who obtained a generous subscription from a business man whom he had heard reproving one of his clerks for using a whole wafer. The gentleman told him that by small savings he acquired means for liberal charities. The London Times, according to Mr. Forney, of the Philadelphia Press, a rare faculty for saving in the same way. He says:

Nothing is allowed to go to waste. A card is kept by the different pressmen, and on it is marked the cause of any spoiled sheet—whether it was the fault of the paper-market, feeder, or the press. The very rags with which the machinery is wiped are counted, and those whouse them cannot receive clean ones until they return the dirty ones. The latter are then washed by a washingmachine in the office, and it is said that this simple little operation saves yearly £150, or near $800 in gold.

GENERAL LOGAN has delighted the Buckeyes in his stumping tour through Ohio. Wherever he has gone he has been greeted with enormous crowds. In one of his meetings he related the following anecdote to illustrate the oneness of Northern Copperheads and Southern rebels:

At Kenesaw Mountain we had in our command an Irishman by the name of Jimmy. They had a great many Irishmen on the other side. We had a little truce there, and the men on both sides were allowed to talk together awhile. Jimmy recognized in one of the rebels an old acquaintance named Paddy, and says he: "What the d—l are you doing on that side?" Says Paddy, "What the d—l are you doing on that side?" "Why this is the side of the government, sure," says Jimmy, "I am on the loyal side." "The d—l you are," says Paddy; "Aint that the Abolition side? Bedad, and I'm on the Dimocratic side anyhow!" [Cheers.] He was satisfied that he was on the side he had always voted on, and that he was still following in the ranks of his party.

The perfect accord of the Northern Democracy with their Southern brothern, in their course when they went off in secession, was pointedly and harmoniously described thus:

As they left the halls of the national legislature, and their seats in Buchanan's Democratic Cabinet—Floyd carrying with him all the government treasure he could lay hands on—and sang:

"This is the way we long have sought
And mourned because we found it not."

And about the same time off here in Ohio, might have been seen Vallandigham, Thurman, Pendleton, and others of the brethren, looking southward and saying:

"If you get there before we do,
Just tell them we are coming too."

WE heard a laughable anecdote of a "man with a big foot." He was a Ruffalonian, who must be alive now, for a man with as good a hold on the ground is not likely to drop off in a hurry. He stepped one day into a small shop of a boot-maker in the flourishing capital of old Erie, and asked Crispen if he could make him a pair of Boots. Looking at his long pedal extremities, and then glancing at a huge uncut cow hide that hung on the wall, he said:

"Well, yes, I guess so." "What time will you have them done? To-day is Monday."

"Well, it'll depend on circumstances; I guess I can have 'em for you by Saturday." On Saturday, therefore, the man called for his boots.

"Have you got 'em done?" said he, as he entered the little shop.

"No, I havn't—I couldn't, it has rained every day since I took your measure."

"Rained!" exclaimed the astonished patron; "Well what of that?—what had that to do with it?"

"What had that to do with it?" echoed Crispin; "it had a good deal to do with it. When I make your boots I've got to go out of doors, for I havn't room in my shop, and I can't work out of doors in rainy weather!"

ONE of the good signs of Virginia is, the location of Northern farmers within its bounds. Another is, that this fact is greeted with congratulations in Virginia itself. A Richmond paper, of Monday, states, as an agreeable item of information, that within a week, between twenty and thirty farms in different parts of the State, have been sold to farmers from the North. This evidently indicates the expectation, on the part of Northern men, that the reconstruction of the Union will be successfully completed, and that in Virginia they will be able to prosecute their plans of honest industry with advantage and peace. And those of the old inhabitants of that State, who most wisely consider their interests both personally and politically, will rejoice in seeing labor, intelligence and wealth thus flowing among them. Acidity of temper and repulsive manners towards new and valuable citizens, can have no other effect than to aggravate, as well as prolong, the calamitous effects of the war, which, on the other hand, the offices of good neighborhood and friendship will, with the advantages of climate and soil, attract industry, intelligence and wealth. The inducements to immigration are numerous, and political passions and prejudices never acted more absurdly than in arraying themselves in opposition to so valuable a public benefit. It is gratifying, therefore, to see such opposition giving way.

THE progress of Sheridan through the country, and the unbounded enthusiasm with which he is everywhere recieved, are gall and wormwood to the Democrats. Wherever he goes they wish "Sheridan twenty miles away," but are compelled to be silent. In speech making the General improves as he goes. In Brooklyn he spoke at least one hundred words, and they had the merit of being well chosen and to the point.—Commercial.

The way to get a Drink—the Way they Did it.

Three ragged, wretched topers stood shivering upon a street corner. They had not a cent between them, and neither had drank a drop within an hour. They debated the deeply-interesting question how to obtain the next glass. After many impracticable suggestions one of the party said:

"I have an idea; we'll all go into the next shop and drink."

"Drink?" replied his companions; "that's what's easily said, but who's to pay?"

"Nobody. Do as I tell you; I'll take the responsibility."

Following the speaker's directions, his two companions entered an adjoining saloon, and called for whisky skins. The place was kept by a Dutchman. After he had waited on his customers, and while they were enjoying their orthodox beverage at the counter, in walked toper No. 1.

"How are ye?" said he to the dutchman.

"How ye do?" said the Dutchman.

Toper No. 1 glanced suspiciously at Topers No. 2 and 3, and beckoning the proprietor aside, asked misteriously.

"Do you know these men?"

"I know no more as dat dey call for de whisky skin."

"Don't take any money from them whispered No. 1.

"Sir I not take any money for the whisky skins?" asked the landlord.

"No; they are informers."

"Hey! informers?"

"Yes, they buy liquor of you so as to inform on you."

"Ah, I understand," said the Dutchman. "Dey not catch me. Tank you, sir; you take something?"

"I don't object," said Toper No. 1, and he took a swig with his companions.

"What's to pay?" said Toper No. 2, putting his hands into his pocket.

"Nothing," said the Dutchman. "Me no sell liquor; me keeps it for my friends."

And having smiled the supposed informers out of the door, he manifested his gratitude by generously inviting the supposed anti-informer to take a second glss. Of course No. 1 did not decline the invitation.

RULES FOR MEASUREMENT.—The following rules for measuring corn and liquids will be useful to many of our readers:

1. Shucked Corn—Measure the length, width and depth of the crib in feet; multiply these three dimensions and their product by eight; then cut off two figures to the right; those on the left will be as many barrels, and those on the right so many hundredths of a barrel.

2. Unshucked Corn—Multiply as in rule 1st in the above example, and the product obtained by 5½; then cut off two figures on the right; those on the left will be so many barrels, and those on the right so many hundredths of a barrel.

For grain, fruits, herbs, in house or box, find the length, breadth and depth; multiply them together; then annex two cyphers and divide the product by 124; answer in bushels, pecks and quarts.

3. Liquid—Find the length in inches from the bung, the under edge, to the chime; multiply it into itself twice and the product by 570. Answer in gallons, quarts, pints and gills.

Measuring 307 feet on each side, and you have, lacking an inch, one square acre.

WHISTLING GIRLS Show me a girl who will dare to whistle in these days when every thing natural, even to the hair on your head, is at a discount, and I'll show you a gal who can be depended upon, one who will not fail you in time of need, and will give you the true hearty grasp, the cordial hand shake, the warm, genuine welcome, no tip of the kid glove, and a cold "how do you do" who can brave danger, look toil in the face without shrinking, "laugh with those that laugh, and weep with those that weep," as well as whistle; who can in short take the world as she finds it, rough and rugged, not go through life as though she was walking on eggs and afraid of cracking a shell, who deals in substance, not shadow.

THE rapid march of history in our land was never more signally illustrated than when the brokers of New York recently sang "Old John Brown" during their reception of Sheridan. It seems only a day or two since the gaunt gray-bearded martyr to an idea swung from a Virginia scaffold, while the learning, piety, and culture of the country united in applauding the execution. Yet since that time armies have trodden to the rhythm of his requiem, and the legend of his death has become the history of the nation.

PAY-DAY.—An extravagant fellow, who borrowed money of a Jew, kept promising and postponing payment till the Jew lost patience.

"Vonce for all, ven vill you pay me?" said the enraged Israelite.

"On the day of judgment," said the other.

"Von't do! dat vill be too busy a day," said the Hebrew.

"Then let it be the day after," replied the other.

WAYNESBURG, PENN'A.

THE WINCHESTER DEFEAT (?)

Phil. Sheridan when he rode from Winchester "twenty miles away" and came upon our troops wildly fleeing before the victorious forces of Early, swung his cap in air and shouted:

"Face the other way, boys! Face the other way! We are going back to our Camps! We are going to lick them (Rebels and Copperheads), out of their boots! Boys, this never should have happened if I had been here. I tell you it never should have happened. We are going to get a twist on them; we'll get the tightest twist on them you ever saw! We'll have all those camps and cannon back again!"

We need not dwell upon the inspiriting and glorious effect of this harangue. The result was the country's preservation. So we look upon the turn in affairs political at the present crisis and, although our ranks are by no means broken or panic stricken, we derive fresh inspiration from past dilemmas out of which the Republican party has emerged so brilliantly triumphant. We say our awakening is most opportune, and re-echo the sentiment of the Union party everywhere that it will end in victory and the utter annihilation of our enemies. "The mills of God grind slow; but grind exceedingly fine."

The causes that brought about this seeming reaction in our own State are plain to every thinking intelligent mind. Side issues, great and small, were saddled upon our party, in carrying which we are always sure to be galled. Adding to all this the lethargy that pervaded our ranks, is it not a wonder the majority of the opposition only footed up the insignificant count of eight hundred and odd votes? To make it the more distracting their candidate was a native of Philadelphia and naturally anti-Free-Railroad in policy, thus this question was involved and sustained vigorously by the Eastern part of the State as the heavy vote in that section demonstrates. Having our own County and Borough as criterions we have no cause for despondency. In the County we have more than held our own proportionately as the figures show. The result in our Borough shows the extreme lassitude on the part of Republicans in the contest. Here the feeling of don't-care-ativeness was wofully displayed. A summing up solves the problem of their nineteen of a majority in Marion. Twenty-eight Republicans were not on the election ground, four here died since the Governor's election, whilst four will cover the number delinquent on the other side. Their majority last year was seven. Making allowance for deaths, we had a clear majority of twelve had the full vote been polled on both sides. This alone is sufficient to prove our strength. Supposing the different counties and sections of the State to have been approximately dilatory, what an overwhelming majority would have been ours had the proper spirit been manifested.

The effect it will have abroad is the only real advantage accruing to the Democracy from their temporary successes. In this State it is a barren victory. The Judge, if he is an upright man, is without political power, even as it is he takes the place of one of his own stripe. In the Legislature we will have a majority of seven in the Senate and ten in the House, seventeen on joint ballot. Thus is sufficient for all purposes.

In fine, we are inclined to rejoice over the result. We are confident that our former prestige is unimpaired. In Luzerne Co., Sharswood's majority was two thousand three hundred and five. Woodward, Democratic, beat the Republican candidate, Ketchem, for Congress, only about three hundred. What accounts for this? It merely points to the fact that where the people think there is something at stake they are vigilant and true. By comparing data it will be observed that the Democratic majority has been reduced some thousands in Luzerne. The conclusion naturally comes that we lost the State by our own carelessness.

IOWA has given a noble lesson to Pennsylvania. The returns thus far give the Republicans 16,000, which will doubtless be swelled to 20,000! All honor to Iowa.

---

OHIO has certainly elected Gen. Hays, Republican, for Governor, by a majority closely hugging 3,500.

---

IT is said that a fraud has been discovered by which 3,000 illegal Democratic votes were received in Philadelphia on Tuesday.

---

THE different corporations of Allegheny county gave a majority of 288 against the consolidation scheme at the recent election.

---

EDWIN BOOTH, the eminent American actor is playing in Pittsburgh.

---

THE Labor Reform party in Allegheny Co., polled over 3,500 votes. They were in a great part Republicans.

---

PITTSBURG proposes to buy all its bridges for a million and a half of dollars, and to open them to the public without toll.

THE masses of Italians are enrolling under the banner of Garibaldi. It is announced that Victor Emanuel will proclaim Rome a part of his kingdom.

LETTER FROM MR. LAWRENCE—HE EXPLAINS HIMSELF.

JAS. E. SAYERS—Dear Sir:—I see by your paper of this week what purports to be a part of a speech delivered by me in Allegheny Co., in which I am reported to have said harsh things of the people of Greene Co., and I have just seen the comments of the Messenger (on the report said to be given in the Pittsburg Commercial,) which are gross and malignant and would not be justifiable in honorable warfare, even if I was correctly reported. The excuse I offer for the reporter is, that the meeting was held on the side of the street where the street cars were constantly passing and repassing and there was much confusion and noise and, I presume, he could not get in detail what I did say as, I see by reference to the report not only that part of the speech, but the main portion of it is garbled, with a sentence given here and there, which makes me say in several instances what I did not say. I did not say a word disrespectful of any one or any community, and do not know that I even mentioned Greene Co.

I did likely refer to the Five Points in a joke, as an evidence that modern democracy finds its greatest strength in communities where there is the most crime and the least intelligence, Statistics abundant can be given to prove this, but this so far as crime and gross ignorance are spoken of, could not apply to Greene Co., and yet it would be no slander, and should offend no one, to say that the large majorities given by your Co. against the friends of the Union, for the last few years, would indicate that the party who gave them was not properly informed.

I know what efforts has been made to seduce the leading Union Men of your Co., by the offer of office and power and how faithful the organization has been to its principles, against the tide of opposition then arrayed against it and I have sympathized with you and admired your firmness.

Aside from political opposition, (which I expected,) I have been treated with the greatest personal kindness and consideration by the Democrats of Greene and regret that ever my political opponents should be led to think I would utter wholesale slanders against the people there.

I have written to the editor of the Commercial asking him to make the correction and regret I had not seen it sooner. Usually, I allow my opponents to say and publish what they please, but this extract comes from a paper supposed to be friendly and hence I correct it and ask you to do so. Yours truly,

G. V. LAWRENCE.

HARDLY six months have passed since Russian America was acquired, and yet enterprises of every character are springing up in that country, which promise to develope a vast and most valuable Pacific trade for the United States. Building lots have advanced several hundred dollars in price at New Archangel and Sitka, in anticipation of a large flow of emigration thither. Numerous parties are organizing in California to proceed to Russian America to reap the wealth afforded in her gold, copper, and coal mines, fur trade and fisheries. Ship builders on Puget Sound expect, and are preparing for the extensive orders in the Spring, and a United States navy yard is to be located on Cambridge Islands.

GARIBALDI is described as follows by a person who had an opportunity of observing him closely at Geneva: "He is dressed as he appears in all his photographs—red shirt, light blue pantaloons, grey felt hat, and his American poncho, with black stripes on his shoulders; in his pocket a large silver watch with a steel chain. He appears to be suffering, walks with difficulty, and his right hand, disabled by rheumatism, must not be to vigorously shaken."

THE workingmen of Cincinnati are making the most enthusiastic demonstrations over the election of Gen. Cary the Labor Reform candidate for Congress in the second District of Ohio. Gen. Cary is the first candidate ever elected to Congress on the Labor Reform platform.

THE Radicals have defeated the conservatives in Omaha, their stronghold in the new State, by two hundred and fifty majority.

THE LINCOLN MONUMENT.—The Washington Lincoln Monument Association has closed a contract for a monument, to be built of white marble, and to have a height of thirty-six feet, including a statue of Lincoln eight feet high, of Italian marble. Over $7,000 has been collected for this purpose, almost entirely in Washinton. The monument will be placed in front of the City Hall.

SUGGESTIVE.—While it costs $35,000,000 annually to pay the salaries of American lawyers, $12,000,000 to keep our criminals, and $10,000,000 to support the dogs in the country, only $6,000,000 are expended in the salaries of 6,000 preachers.

THE LATE ELECTIONS.

What the Press Think of It.

The Pittsburgh Dispatch remarks, that the late elections in this State, Ohio, Indiana and Iowa, merely show that the Republicans masses are dissatisfied with their leaders; the Democrats have not increased their votes, but thousands of Republicans staid at home. The result will have the effect of admonishing political leaders that there is a point at which they should stop, if they expect to be successful. The Democratic party, by permitting itself to be used in the interest of slavery, was finally prostrated. Year after year the slavery propogandists insisted on some new exaction, until, finally, they demanded the right to spread their institution over all the land. Kansas was invaded by these, and out of that circumstance arose discussion, which resulted in the disruption of the Democracy and their final overthrow. In a word the Democracy dug its own grave in its advocacy of pro-slavery measures, and the Republicans are in danger of permitting themselves to be swung into the opposite direction. Their party is strong enough for all purposes, if but managed with ordinary prudence. They cannot succeed, however, if they permit all sorts of side issues to distract them. In Maine they shouldered extreme opinions in regard to the sale of liquor, as if extreme opinions in legislation can prevent drunkenness; and in Iowa, the Republicans did the same thing; the consequence is, as in Maine, a large falling off of their vote on Tuesday last. When a party becomes so strong that its leaders imagine it invulnerable, then begins its danger. The Democratic leaders imagined that their party would stand anything in the name of Democracy, and so they permitted the slaveholders to break their back by too heavy a load of pro-slavery exactions. As we have stated, the Republicans, strong as they are, they had better not experiment too much upon side issues.

The same journal adds, there is an apparent inconsistency in insisting upon negro suffrage in the South and denying it to colored people among ourselves, as is the case with the people of Ohio. But it is not affection for the negroes of the South which prompts politicians to insist upon their enfranchisement; the idea is that they may be in a position to prevent, by their ballots, future trouble. They sustain negro suffrage at the South, not because it is a good itself, considered apart from the peculiar situation of affairs in rebeldom, but because it is indispensable to the security of the nation against future rebellion. We do not sympathize with this class, nor would we have any concessions made to them, but in the face of this fact, it was unfortunate that the amendment striking the world "white" out of the Constitution of Ohio was acted upon in conjunction with the State election. Some, and perhaps many, who would under ordinary circumstances have voted the, Republican ticket, were induced to join the opposition, and hence the closeness of the late contest. It must be remembered that the immense Republican majorities of the past few years were made up of War Democrats. Because these men agreed with the Republicans in regard to putting down rebellion and restoring the Union, it does not follow that they are willing to endorse other extreme measures.

The Harrisburg Telegraph says, notwithstanding Pennsylvania has reduced her Republican vote, and in the face of the fact that the aggregate will show a falling off where we had a right to expect gains, we are as well satisfied, to-day, that the State is as overwhelming Republican as we were when we recorded the magnificent majorities which assisted so signally in electing Lincoln President. We fought the contest on clear and broad issues—taking position on national questions in which is decidedly involved the safety of the Government. If the American people do not maintain at the ballot-box what they achieved on the battle-field, war will become a business among the sections of the Union, as persistently followed as is any wrong which now disgraces a portion of the people. There is no doubt in our mind that the sentiment of the people is right on the legitimate question at issue between the two parties. It is not pleasent to engage in accounting for what is a disaster, but it may help us in future to know that wherever our friends confined themselves to the real issues of the contest, there we won handsome majorities. The result shows that we are abundantly able to poll every Republican vote when Republican issues are preserved from blending with side questions which are not legitimate in a political contest, and which can never be disposed of by a popular vote of the people.

Our elements of strength have been confused, not destroyed in Pennsylvania. We have been injured by local issues, in treating which fairly Republicans always suffer, and out of which, by the trickery peculiar to our opponents, the Copperheads have managed to draw temporary staength. The power of Republican principles is as grand as ever. The Union had its "Bull Run," in which both parties considered themselves whipped. The election yesterday may be considered in the light of a Bull Run contest. Our opponents were as anxious after the election was over, to crawl back to their holes, as were the rebels, after the fight with Pope, in a hurry to get back to their entrenchments. While we lost votes yesterday, we have gained wisdom which will make us more votes, before another October rolls around, than we lost. We can profit by our disasters, if we are so minded. We still have our honor and our principles—we still represent the integrity of the Government—we are still the Union party opposed to traitors, and as such we are certain to triumph as is justice sure always to prevail. The right may be deferred, but it cannot be finally defeated. If this were not so, there would be no God!

The New York Herald takes the proper view of the recent elections when it says that "they do not denote Democratic victories, but the Republican element of the country has stepped aside to rebuke its leaders." So say we, observes the Pittsburg Gazette. The masses have grown tired of the inert policy of those who are by circumstances placed in position as the pioneers of the party. They hold to the party with a tenacity creditable to their patience, and were loth to sever their connection with it till the last vestige of hope for the accomplishment of any vigorous action was gone. But the party leaders will awake to a consciousness of their shortcomings, and 'ere many months roll away the Republicans will be cemented together in the one common bond which united them while battling for the perpetuation of our Union. Providence has been kind, showing the party their weakness before the great battle for the Presidency, and let us improve by the lesson vouchsafed the nation.

The New York Tribune blandly asserts that, Judge Sharswood is elected to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, as we feared he would be; and we believe this the extent of the Democratic triumph in that State. Many Republicans would vote for him on personal grounds; yet a good County ticket in Philadelphia would have defeated his election. But it was supposed that any thing would be elected that could get on the Republican ticket; so nominations were made that the people would not support; while the Democrats, having little hope of success, nominated three soldiers who had a good war record for the best offices, and so gained thousands of votes.

The Pittsburgh Commercial has it that the Democrats have a right to rejoice; but if they are wise they will not delude themselves with the idea that they have won a victory in this State, whether Sharswood has five or ten thousand, or none at all, the fact will remain that he has recieved a less number of votes than Clymer did last fall. The simple and only truth is no Republican has changed to the Democrats—a few thousand in the State did not vote, and the result is as nearly as possible a draw game. There is nothing in the canvass or the result that presents a hope for the State by the Democrats, or should cause a single moments, depression on the part of the Republicans. From the election on Tuesday last, certain things can be predicted, and one of them is that Pennsylvania, next fall, will give for the Republican Presidential electors an overwhelming majority. The present result clears the way for such a result then. If the Democrats are wise they will percieve this, and moderate their expectations. As many a time during the war it was the case, this defeat will insure a victory on the next trial. The reasons why this will be so are obvious.

A Good Story.

Gen. John A. Logan, in a recent speech, told the following neat story of army life:

At Kenesaw Mountain we had in our command an Irishman by the name of Jimmy. They had a great many Irishmen on the other side. We had a little truce there and the men on both sides were allowed to talk together awhile. Jimmy recognized in one of the rebels an old acquaintance Paddy, and says he: "What the d—l are you doing on that sids?" Says Paddy, What the d—l are you doing on that side?" "Why, this is the side of the Government, sure," says Jimmy. "I'm on the loyal side." "The d—l you are," says Paddy: "ain't that the Abolition side? Be dad, and I'm on the Democratic side, anyhow!" [Cheers.] He was satisfied that he was on the side he had always voted on, and that he was still following in the ranks of his party.

New York Press on the Result of the Elections.

New York October 10.—The Tribune says: "Ohio on Tuesday gave more votes and a larger proportion of her Republican strength for manhood suffrage than any other State has ever given—more by many thousands than she would ever have given until now. The vital principal of genuine democracy will march on through seeming defeats to inevitable and conclusive triumph. Through whatever trials of its constancy the great party will move right on to the arduous but inevitable achievement of equal rights for all."

The World says: "The news we published from Ohio fills the measure of our hopes. The elections are an indignant unanimous veto upon the policy of the party in power."

The Times says: The elections indicate no increased confidence in the Democratic party, but simply a reaction against the extreme acts and measures of the Republican party, and convey an admonition which ought to be salutary to political readers."

The Herald says: "The recent elections do not denote democratic victories, but that the republican element of the country has stepped aside to rebuke its leaders."

The Journal of Commerce says: "If the returns from Ohio can be relied upon, the reaction against negro suffrage is even more determined than was expected. It will be very difficult for any faction to secure favor for years to come while endorsing this measure."

The Commercial Advertiser says: "The muddle between Congress and the President is occasioned by the Military Reconstruction act, under which they expect to bring the South back under negro supremacy, and this is precisely the question on which, after a full argument, Ohio has rendered a verdict which ends Chief Justice Chase's aspirations for the Presidency and terminates Ben Wade's Senatorial career."

The Post has nothing editorially on the subject of the election.

The Express says the elections mean the restoration of the Democratic party to power, and declare against the whole Congressional reconstruction system of the Radicals, and all their paper money management. There never was so meaning an election as that in Ohio.

The Cause of High Prices.

The New York Tribune thus estimates the causes for high prices that breadstuffs command: "In France, the wheat crop is counted at less than an average. Belgium and Spain are so deficient that they will be obliged to import, and Poland is in little better condition. Southern Russia will have large supplies, and in Hungary the yields are so heavy that even now the roads are unable to move all the grain that offers, and store houses are crowded. Turkey, on both sides of the Bosphorus, is said to have good crops, and will have something to spare. In Algeria (Africa) so scarce are all kinds of food that France is called upon loudly. Egypt is said to have abundant harvests, but perhaps there should be some abatement from this statement, since they could scarcely be over the prostration caused by attempting to supply England with cotton. The famine in India is largely due to this same cause.

In estimating probable prices of grain in Europe, the almost utter dearth of breadstuffs in many parts of the United States before the present harvest is to be taken into account; for before foreign shipments can reach former proportions, we must be supplied at home. It is a singular fact that in neither France, England, not in the United States, are there old stocks of wheat on hand, and their next year's bread must come almost wholly from this year's."

Severe Gale on the Gulf.

Accounts are received of tremendous gales at Galveston on Thursday the 3d., estimating the damages to the wharves, shipping, goods and building at a million of dollars. It is the highest overflow since October, 1837. The water at mid-day so inundated the gas works that it was impossible to build fires. The city cemetery was covered with water one foot deep. The third story of a new brick hotel was blown down upon Odd Fellows' Hall, crushing it. The water spread in places entirly across the Island. No mail or passenger train is on the railroad. It is reported that the bay bridge is washed away. The Telegraph lines are a complete wreck. Several vessels were sunk, others were carried far inland; one was driven completely through Williams' wharf. All the wharfs are badly damaged. The storm seems to have been general along the Gulf Coast.

The New Cabinet.

The Cabinet makers of influence are circulating a written slip of paper, professing that on Novenaber 8th the Cabinet will be changed as follows: Secretary of State, Reverdy Johnson; Secretary of the Treasurer, Erastus Corning; Postmaster General, Wm. S. Groesbeck, of Ohio; Secretary of War, Frank P. Blair, Jr.; Secretary of the Navy, John Quincy Adams. Secretary Browning and Attorney General Stansbery are to remain.

The South and the Elections

The Southern Journals commenting on the elections, say, there is a unanimity in the sentiment that the result will prove that the military reconstuction act will fail in the South so far as negro suffrage is concerned, and that Congress will be called on to modify the law in that regard. These journals show that there has been intense excitement all over the South to hear the returns from Ohio and Pennsylvania.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—The attention of our readers is specially directed to the following advertisements, which appear for the first time in our paper to-day.

Auditor's Notice—J. C. Flenniken.
Bank Report—J. C. Flenniken.

TWO MONTHS FOR NOTHING.—LOOK AT THIS OFFER.—We have received the American Agriculturist for October. We wish that all our friends could see this paper. We know of no way in which so large an amount of truly valuable interesting, and instructive reading matter could be given to a family at so small a price as the subscription to the Agriculturist. Each number contains 32 to 40 large quarto pages, and 30 to 50 fine engravings, many of them very costly and beautiful. Here, in this October number, we find in addition to the great amount of valuable information, hints, suggestions, etc., more than 30 engravings, several of which are among the most expensive ever found in an Illustrated Journal. This number is of itself really worth a year's subscription. The cost of the American Agriculturist is only $1,50 for a year, in advance, or four copies for $5. The publishers offer that valuable journal free for the remaining two months of this year to all new subscribers for 1868, (Vol. 27,) who send in their subscription during this month of October. We advise all our readers to secure it on these terms. It will be sure to benefit all fathers and mothers, and interest and instruct the children. Subscriptions should be sent to the publishers, Orange Judd & Co., 245 Broadway, New York City.

[We will send a copy of the Agriculturist, undoubtedly the best journal of the kind published in the country, to any one of our friends for fourteen months, if they first send us the names of three new Subscribers for one year with money in advance. This proposition open for this month only.—ED. REPUB.]

A. A. FURMAN, Sec'y.

BEAUTIFUL.—The fashionable Cloaks at Evans'.

A New assortment of Fancy Soaps, Hair Oil and Perfumeries at G. W. Roberts & Co's. Drug Store.

BOILER EXPLOSION AT CAMERON.—The Moundsville National, of the 10th, inst., says one of the boilers attached to the keg and stave factory of Messrs. C. H. Bender & Co., at Cameron, exploded last Friday at 11 o'clock a. m. At the time of the explosion about thirty men and boys were engaged at work, but very fortunately only three were injured. The engineer, Mr. Spears, was severely scalded about face and body. An old citizen, Mr. Williard, and grand child, were sitting in the engine room at the time. Mr. Williard is badly scalded, arm broken; the child severely scalded and cut about the head. Both boilers were carried some distance through the front of the engine room, making a complete wreck of it, and tearing an immense hole in the base of the smoke stack. The loss will be severly felt here as a large number will be thrown out of employment.

Paints and Oil of all kinds, for sale at G. W. Roberts & Co's Drug Store.

MAGNIFICENT.—Evans Stock of Ladies Dress goods.

A GENTLEMAN of great medical knowledge says that a more genial, wholesome and effectual tonic and appetizer than Drake's Celebrated Plantation Bitters was never discovered. He recomends it for Dyspepsia, for Liver Complaint, for Exhaustion, Weakness, for a want of Appetite, and for Mental Depression. It is an agreeable stimulant, and is equally adapted to young and old. Persons of sedentary habits, clergyman, lawyers, merchants, and delicate females are particularly benefited by its use.

ALWAYS FOREMOST.—Evans is just opening the fullest and best assorted stock of Fall and Winter goods ever brought to this market.

Robertson's Liquid Dentifrice for cleansing and preserving the teeth for sale at G. W. Roberts & Co's Drug Store.

A STRANGE AFFAIR.—
At twelve o'clock, one summer day,
A handsome man, in fine array,
Was seen to be in great dismay—
His eyes they wildly rolled
He strode around in deep despair,
And savagely he tore his hair,
And smote his brow, all lined with care,
With hands so damp and cold;

What was his grief? List to his tale!
Last week, in a tremendous gale,
As his clothes were bleaching on a rail,
They all were blown away.
He stormed in vain at the blustering thief,
And mourned his loss with direst grief,
Till a good friend came to his relief.
And took him in a "one-horse-shay"
right up to James Gulher's Dry Goods and Furnishing Store where his loss was soon made good; since which time this individual has been enjoying his otium cum dignitate.

SALE DEFERRED.—The sale of the "Eagle Foundery," (Owen's) was postponed from former day of sale to Saturday next.

NO TIME TO DALLY.—If you desire anything from Evan's New Stock you had better go soon. The People know who sells cheapest, and will make a rush for his choice selections.

Wilburs Pure Cod Liver Oil and Lime cure for Consumption for sale at G. W. Roberts & Co's. Drug Store.

FANCY.—The "Sensation" Hats, at Evans'.

WASHINGTON COUNTY FAIR.—The Washington County Agricultural Society held their annual exhibition on the fair grounds at Washington, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of last week. The attendance is said to have been unusually large, and the exhibition a very fine one.

BOATS RUNNING.—The recent rains have caused a rise in the river and the packets are now making regular trips.

40 kegs new White Lead just received at G. W. Roberts & Co's Drug Store.

CHEAP.—All sorts of goods at Evans'.

MAN STABBED.—A dispatch from Uniontown, dated the 9th, informs us that the election passed off quietly, no special interest being taken in it by any one to secure a large vote, and it will be very small. At McClellantown, the day did not pass so quietly. One or two stabbing affrays occurred. The first was of an insignificant character, but the second serious. A man named Daniel Hostetler stabbed and cut another by the name of Vincent quite seriously. He stabbed him several times in the back, but the only dangerous cut was on the side of the neck and the throat. It is thought to-day that Vincent will recover. The quarrel was about politics.

Window Glass of every size, for sale at G. W. Roberts & Co's Drug Store.

GRAND.—Ladies Shawls at Evans'.

ON A STRIKE.—The coal diggers of the "flanks," below town were on a strike last week for three cents per bushel, two and a half being the price paid for mining. We know nothing of their grievance, or whether the parties have arranged it amicably. It has had the tendency to raise the price of coal.

THE equinoctial storm began on Wednesday last and we have been having alternate rain and murky weather ever since.

"DISTINGUISHED ARRIVAL."—Evans' New Goods have just come from Philadelphia, and are meeting a most hearty reception.

GOTHER can beat them all selling Goods!

CARMICHAELS FAIR.—The annual exhibition of the Greene County Agricultural Society was held on their grounds at Carmichaels, Thursday and Friday, of last week. The display the first day, we understand, was not so profuse but very creditable withal. The second day there was a large attendance. The lower end of our county was fairly represented by her youth and beauty. The weather was somewhat unfavorable and fitful showers made it rather unpleasant. Notwithstanding, cattle, etc., were exhibited the day before, the display of calves was exceedingly large and, indeed, the extensive variety of stock-larger which was on exhibition afforded a rich feast to the eyes of the admirers of the beautiful in the works of nature and art! The state of the weather and the play of the elements were favorable to this part of the exhibition. In the horse line—although nothing very fast was entered, yet of stock for general purposes, the exhibition was very fair. The mechanical department presented a good appearance, the collection of machines, farming implements, wagons, carriages, etc., was certainly good. Passing hastily through Floral and Domestic Hall, which were combined in one, we noticed fine displays of flowers, fruit, vegetables, grains, etc., together with some excellent (we presume, we didn't taste) specimens of wines, jellies, preserved fruits, cakes, bread,—in short, almost everything imaginable calculated to please the eye and tempt the appetite. As we passed on through the domestic department we noticed that the ladies had not been idle lookers-on in the getting up of this fine display. There were on exhibition some of the finest specimens of quilting, knitting, crocheting—in fact, almost every variety of fancy needle work which the fertile brain and skillful fingers of woman are capable of bringing into existence—that it has been our pleasure to see any where. It has not been our fortune to attend this Fair for some years past, but judging from the exhibition this year we do not think the Society has in any manner retrograded.

The "National Band," of Carmichaels, was present and rendered excellent service.

NOTIONS.—At Evans: in great variety and cheaper than the cheapest.

DEDICATION.—On Sabbath, the 20th of Oct., a new and very handsome Methodist Church will be dedicated at Amity, Washington county, Pa. The Rev. J. D. Herr, pastor of the churches at Washington and Amity, has been very successful in his ministry there as elsewhere, and is highly appreciated by the community. The Rev. John Cowl will preach in the morning, and the Rev. James Robinson in the evening of dedication day.

GOTHER has the largest stock of Goods in the County!

AGED CITIZENS DROPPING OFF.—The following old residents of Fayette County, have recently died: Mr. Stephen McClean of Uniontown, aged 81 years, on the 2nd inst.; Mr. John Gano, of Morris X Roads, aged 86 years, Aug. 1st, 1867; Mr. John Miles, of Springhill Furnace, aged 80 years, Sept. 16th, 1867; Mary A. Gregg of Uniontown, aged 72 years, Oct 1st, 1867.

THE work on the Penitentiary of W. Va. at Moundsville is steadily progressing.

EXQUISITE.—The Winter style of Bonnets at Evans'.

THE BIGGEST THING OUT.—Evans' stock of domestic Dry Goods.

THE greatest variety, of Flannel at Evans'.

OUT WEST—A general renewal of business. Cause—good crops.

COMFORTABLE.—The Splendid FURS at Evans'.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

The Florida Reefs.

The following are Agassiz's estimate of the formation and age of the Florida reefs on the Florida coast:

These reefs are built up by an insect that begins to work on the ground in water of twelve or fifteen fathoms deep, and he cannot live unless he has the constant action of the open sea upon him, so that he stops at the height of high tide. By numerous experiments it has been ascertained that the coral building constructs at about the rate of half an inch in a century; but in order to err, if at all, on the safe side, Agassiz doubles his estimate in his calculations, making it in an inch in a century. Now outside of the Florida Keys there is a long reef with an average height of seventy feet' which, therefore, must have been begun 7000 years ago, or 1000 years before Adam. Secondly, the keys themselves are nothing but an inner reception of the same sort of coral reefs, of at least the same average height; and the builders must have finished them, before they begun the outside reef, as appears from the necessity of having the open sea, and from the fact that there are none outside of the one we have mentioned above. The keys, therefore, swell the record to 14,000 years. Next we have the shore bluff of the main land, which, is also of the same coral construction and which carries the earth's record above 20,000 years. Moreover, there are, as you go inland, seven well defined and, of course, successive coral reefs, which added to the foregoing, would make the work 70,000 years old. And Professor Agassiz regards this a very moderate estimate.

The Monthly Statement of the Public Debt.

The Statement for October shows an increase in the debt of $2,194,380 95, compared with that of September. The Greenback currency has been contracted $4,000,000, making the total reduction since April, 1866, when Congress limited the amount to be withdrawn each month to four millions of dollars, $61,584,408. The sum of $22,749,252 was withdrawn as belonging to the original $50,000,000 Greenbacks provided to meet the contingencies of the Deposits in the Treasury, bearing from 4 to 6 per cent., and which Deposits have been wholly paid off since April, 1866. The further sum of $38,835,156 has been with, drawn from time to time of the original issues of $400,000,000. No change has been made in the maturing Compound Notes. Those amount, as on the 1st of September, to $78,839,580 and the new 3 per cent. Certificates of Deposit have been provided to the extent of so much of this sum as falls due this month and in December. Of the 7-30 per cents., outstanding on Sept. 1, $29,670, 000 appear to have gone into the new 5-20s of 1865-'67, and $4,250,000 transferred to the past due debt upon which interest and the right of conversion have ceased.

Christian Convention.

A call, signed by the officers of the young men's Christian Association of Pittsburgh, and all the officiating clergy of the city, has been issued for a convention of all the churches of Christ, in Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and Western Virginia, to be held in Pittsburgh, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, October 22d, 23d and 24th. All Christian churches of the sections named are requested to send delegations of a pastor and two or three laymen. No Credentials will be required. The object of the convention is to promote the harmony of Christian denominations, and stimulate each other to greater activity in the cause of Christ. Similar conventions have been held in Maine, Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Illinois and other States, and been followed with good results.

PRESIDENTIAL.

Nomination of General Grant by Maryland.

The following resolution, was adopted by the Maryland Republican Convention at its session Thursday.

"Resolved, That the Republicans of Maryland, in convention assembled, earnestly recommend to the Republican party of the country the notaination of General Ulysses S. Grant as their candidate for President of the United States."

The Italian Revolution.

LONDON, October 8.—Garibaldi, from the Island of Caprera, has issued a second proclamation, couched in very violent words. He urges the revolutionary force to go on and capture Rome.

Bogus Bonds.

Counterfeit 7-30 bonds are in circulation and have but recently been discovered. The Treasury department furnishes the following description of defects in the imitation. The points of the star forming the seal are longer than in the genuine and have a slightly blurred appearance, and the red ink of the seal is a shade lighter than in the genuine. The imprint at the bottom of the bond is set differently in the margin. There is an observable difference in the expression of the vignette, representing a female figure, upon the face of the bond, the lines being not so well shaded nor as smooth and uniform in color; in the counterfeit the figures denoting the number of the bond are slightly uneven and the blue ink in which they are printed lacks the metallic and glossy appearance of the genuine. The red figures in the coupons attached designating their numbers are larger than in the genuine. The borders and ornamental lathe work of the coupons appear blurred and indifferently executed, and the white space between the margin of the bond and the coupons is wider than in the genuine bonds. The Government will lose nothing by these counterfeits, as all seven-thirties are made payable to order by the holder when presented for indorsement.

DAY OF THANKSGIVING.—Throughout Canada, Thursday next is to be observed as a day of general thanksgiving for an abundant harvest. Canada has been as fortunate in the plenteousness of her crop this year as the United States.

"ADMIRAL" Semmes has, from force of circumstances, been obliged to sever his connection with the Memphis Bulletin. An exchange says that he made a very good pirate, but a mighty poor editor, though he did about an equal amount of stealing in both professions.

THE WORLD RENOWNED

SINGER

SEWING MACHINE.

OUR NEW FAMILY MACHINE,

Has been over two years in preparation, and which has been brought to perfection regardless of time, labor or expense, and is now confidently presented to the public as incomparably the best Sewing Machine in existence.

The Machine in question is simple, compact, durable and beautiful. It is quiet, light running and capable of performing a range and variety of work never before attempted upon a single Machine—using either Silk, Twist, Linen or Cotton Thread, and sewing with equal facility the very finest and coarsest materials, and anything between the two extremes; in the most beautiful and substantial manner. Its attachments for Hemming, Braiding, Cording, Tucking, Quilting, Felling, Trimming, Binding, etc., are Novel and Practical, and have been invented and adjusted especially for this Machine.

New designs of the unique, useful and popular folding tops and cabinet cases peculiar to the Machines manufactured by this Company have been prepared for enclosing the new Machines. These are gotten up in every variety of wood, such as Black Walnut, Mahogany, Rosewood, and the like, and from the plainest to the most elaborate pattern and finish—the Machines themselves being more or less highly ornamented, to correspond with the Tables or Cabinets for which they are intended.

A few reasons why SINGER'S latest improved SEWING MACHINES are the best for Family and General Purposes.

1st. You can sew anything from the finest single thickness of Swiss or Nainsook to several thicknesses of the heaviest Beaver cloth, using any kind or size of thread with equal facility, from No. 20 Cotton up to the heaviest patent or Linen thread.

2d. It uses a short, straight needle, easily set, and makes the popular Lock Stitch alike on both sides.

3d. It has an even self-adjusting tension which requires no change for different thicknesses of material or different sizes of thread.

4th. It is free from all springs, wires and other complications, and is almost noiseless.

5th. No threads to hold or wheels to turn in starting.

6th. It does not have to be taken apart to oil and clean it.

7th. It has a perfect feed whereby you can sew the finest materials without having to keep your work stretched to prevent its "puckering," and you never have to assist the work through as in all other machines.

8th. It will hem any width, sew a straight seam, or make a reliable seam in the most perfect manner, with less skill than is required to sew a straight seam on any other machine.

Its attachments for Braiding, Cording, Quilting, Binding, Tucking, &c., are novel and practical, and require but little skill to use them.

Careful instructions given at the house of the purchaser.

Money refunded if the machines are not as represented.

Every machine warranted and kept in repair three years without charge.

DR. F. WHITTLESY, Physician for Chronic Diseases, has a permanent office in Washington, Pennsylvania, where he has been engaged for the past twelve years in the successful treatment of all DISEASES OF A CHRONIC NATURE.

The Doctor might present a volume of certificates of cures, complimentary notices, &c., but the most satisfactory testimonial will be given the public in a trial of his skill. Dr. W. devotes exclusive attention to Chronic Ailments, in which his practice has been uniformly successful, effecting cures in many cases that have baffled all other systems of treatment.

Paralysis, Rheumatism, Bronchitis, Catarrah, Deafness, Diseases of the Spine, Stomach, Heart, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys, Lungs, Female Diseases, General Debility, &c., &c.,

Are all promptly and permanently cured by the Doctor's system of treatment. During the past few years, the Doctor has registered hundreds of cures to which he will be pleased to give those references who may call upon him. He invites all afflicted with any form of Chronic disease and having failed to obtain relief, to

GIVE HIS MEDICINES A TRIAL.

His principal agents are selected entirely from the Vegetable Kingdom, and the same so combined as to equalize the vital forces of the body and thereby restore it to perfect health. The Doctor has been especially successful in the treatment of all

FEMALE DISEASES.

Women by the score fall victims to maladies peculiar to their sex, many of whom might be saved from lives of wretchedness and premature graves by applying in time to Dr. W. The remedies employed in the practice of Dr. W. are manufactured exclusively by him from his own Medical Laboratory and are always pure in quality and operation. Dr. W. diagnoses disease by means of the Urine, the only infallible test of disease, never failing to discover its nature, locality and curability, thus enabling him to employ a

RATIONAL, SCIENTIFIC AND CURATIVE TREATMENT.

Of the absolute certainty of his mode of diagnosis he can satisfy every patient who gives him a trial, from the urine alone he will tell accurately all that can be known of any disease. In the examination of this secretion, he employs optical, chemical and microscopical tests, no case being presented in which one of these tests is not sufficient to an accurate diagnosis. The Doctor does not claim to be a "cure all," nor yet "the right arm of the Almighty stretched forth to save the world from premature dissolution," but he does profess from scientific acquirements and

THE EXPOSTULATION.

Now, Charley, I ne'er
Would have married you, dear,
Had I known of your pation for smoking;
Of that horrible stuff
You've had surely enough—
Put it down—you are very provoking!

I have sat by your side
Till I felt quite defied
To speak, for the vapor is choking;
But 'tis useless to plead—
You puff! puff! at "the weed"
As if man were created for smoking!

Whiff! whiff! in the morn,
Before breakfast, unshorn,
Untidy—you know I'm not joking—
Then all through the day
You are puffing away,
And care not to me how provoking.

You'll tell me, of course,
'Twas not this made me hoarse,
When taking that journey to Woking;
Cuba first, and wife next,
'Twould an angel have vexed
To mark your devotion to—smoking!

That 'witching old pipe
I'm half tempted to gripe,
And cast in the fire I am poking;
And would, too, but bother,
You'd still find another,
And cleave to the habit of smoking.

Ah, well! I'll give away,
For, perhaps, as you say,
No business have wives to be croaking:
You wed us "to cherish,"
And, lest we shoul perish,
Like plants, we must suffer a smoking!

OUR INDEBTEDNESS.

Every dollar of war tax that the people are called upon to pay reminds them who it was and what party it was that precipitated this war. And thereby imposed this burden on the country. On this question there is fortunately no room for difference of opinion. It is a matter of history that will go down to future generations to all coming time, that the leaders of the Democartic party, when in full control of the Goverment of the United States, initiated that cost so many lives and so much treasure, and which brought upon the people to grievous a burthen. Nor where the southern Democrats alone responsible for this war and debt. Not only did Buchanan, the Democratic President, and a northern man, and his Cabinet, consisting both of Northern and Southern Democrats, industriously aid in preparing the way for the rebellion, but the most influential Northern Democrats gave the most solemn promises that they would furnish actual aid and support the South in case of any movement of Northern troops to put down a rebellion, should one be initiated. Thus encouraged, the leading Democrats of the Southern section of the Union, encouraged and aided in every possible way by a Democratic Administration of the Federal Goverment, which placed the armies and treasury of the nation at their disposal, proceeded to make everything sure before an honest man should be permitted to take his position at the helm. When Abraham Lincoln proceeded to Washington, and escaped assassinated by passing through Baltimore in disguise, the revolt had so far progressed that the conspirators supposed themselves completely master of the situation, and all assurances on the part of the President that slavery would not be interfered with if they returned to their allegiance as good citizens were hailed with derision, for they regarded his position as little better than a prisnor of war.

At a latter date, when the loyal men of the North were making superhuman efforts to crush out the rebellion, the leaders of the Confederey were encouraged to hold out year after year from the reiterated assurances that Lincoln's administration had not the power to put down the rebellion, that it would soon be exhasted in resources of men and money. After the war commenced the debt would not have reached one-tenth the amount but for this aid and encouragement given to the enemy from the Democratic party.

When Grant was on his way to Richmond and successfully putting in operation his combination that were to circumvent and distroy the monster. The Democracy assemble in the National Convention and proclamation to the world that the efforts to put down the rebellion by force had proved a failure, and demand a cessation of hostilities,

We see plainly in the history of the past where the responsibility rests for this great war debt which bears so heavily on the industry of the people. The same treacherous policy is adopted by the Copperhead Democracy in reference to reconstruction. They counsel the South to rejoice the mild terms of reconstruction embraced in the laws of Congress to keep the country in turmoil and disorder until some distant day, when it is hoped that party may come into power, when treason will be rewarded and loyalty punished.—Niagara Journal.

BEAUTIFUL AND TRUE.—In an article in Frazier's Magazine this brief but beautiful extract occurs:

"Education does not commence with the alphabet. It begins with a mother's look, with a father's smile of approbation or sign of reproof—with a sister's gentle pressure of the hand, or a brother's noble act of forbearance—with a handful of flowers in green and daisy meadows—with bird's nests admired but not touched—with creeping ants, and almost impossible emmels, with humming bees and glass bee-hives—with pleasant walks and shady lanes, and with thoughts directed in sweet and kindly tones, anfl words to mature acts of benevolence, to deeds of virtue, and to the source of all good is God himself."

THE London Seapel gives the following as an infallible cure for small-pox and scarlet fever: "Sulphate of zinc, one grain; fox glove (digitalis), one grain; half a teaspoonful of sugar, mix with two tablespoonfuls of water. Take a spoonful every hour. Either disease will disappear in twelve hours. For a child, smaller doses according to age. If countries would compel their physicians to use this, their would be no need of pest houses."

Miscellaneous.

Will Of Lieut. General Winfield Scot

The will of the late General Scott, which has just been proved, provides, after the payment of funeral expenses, and the payment of just debts, that his property of every kind, real and personal, be divided among his three daughters, and is in terms as follows: "I bequeath to my executors and to their survivors and successors my house and lot in New York; my papers, which are of value, I give to my eldest danghter, Cornelia Winfield Scott, for her during life. Upon her death said property is to be transferred to whom she may designate. I further give to my daughter Cornelia Winfield all of my libarry, except the marked volumes, my silver ware, medals, paintings, and my Louisiana sword. I bequeath my Pulaski sword which, the Polish-American hero had in his hand when he fell, to the Uited States Militay Academy, and my Mexican gilt sword to my grandson, Winfield Scott Hoyt. To my second and third daughters, Camilla and Marcella, I bequeath to each an equal third of what money falls due to my estate from my publishers. I hereby appoint executors of this, my last will and testament, the following friends, viz: John Chetwood, Esq., of Elizabeth, N. J.; Goold Hoyt, Esq., one of my son-in-law; B. R. Alden, a former aid-de-camp of mine, and Gen. Schuyler Hamilton, another ex-aid-de-camp, executors of this last will and testament

THE "finest woman in the world" is being exhibited in a booth on the Champs de Mars. Those who visit her are addressed by her in the following modest style: "I am the most beautiful woman in the world. No empress, no queen can compare with me. You are at liberty to touch me, messieurs; you will find that there is no cotton about me." Very few of the visitors, however, avail themselves of this permission.

THE Rev. Mr. Spurgeon preaches in conversational style interperses his sermons with such remarks as "Mr. Bags, you'd better take that child into the ante-room; he's tired" "Come this way, friends, their is plenty of room." "Open the windows, Manning; it is very warm." And when a mad sort of cry interrupted him, he looked down on an old woman shaking with epilepsy and mildly remarked, "Don't be troubled, brethren, our sister is subject to fits."

IMPUDENCE.—We received yesterday by mail a letter containing six tickets in a gift enterprise of which A. A. Kelley & Co., profess to be proprietors, with the request for us to act as Agent for them. We shall do no such a thing. It will be late when we undertake to aid in swindling an honest people, for Kelley & Co., "or any other man." We would advise them to procure as Agents that thieving firm known in Troy, New York, under the name and style of "Burger, Shutts & Co.

A RITUALISTIC WEDDING.—It is said that a wedding ceremony recently performed in London, according to the ritualitic forms occupied three hours. This is longer than the honeymoon sometimes lasts. Taking the chances of connubial bliss into account, it is likely to be generally a consmption of more time than it is safe to risk. In this country it wouldent do at all. Marriages are sometimes contracted, the ceremony performed the honeymoon exhausted, divorces obtained and the parties married again, within about, that time. Ritualism will not be popular here in marriage matters.

WE will not, positively, under any circumstances whatever, after this issue of our paper insert in our columns local notices whereby persons or institutions are to be pecuniarly benefited, unless such notices when handed in, are paid for as other Advertisements. We have been doing this kind of business long enough and don't see that it has ever benefitted us any.
"Please publish and oblige yours," has played out. It don't pay.

A SAILING carriage, designed for crossing the plains, has been made at St. Louis. Its wheels are ten feet high, it has two upright jib sails, and a sail on each spoke of the two wheels on one side of the wagon. The steering geer acts on the forward wheels. The body is shaped like a boat, and hung low, and will be used as a boat in crossing the streams.

THE consumption of Generals in Andy Johnson's reconstructed War Department is something alarming. It is said that Grant is already used up, and the President will shortly seize upon Sheaman. By and-by we may get down to McClellan or Fitz John Porter.

AN Ohio paper thus puts the case in noticing Copperhead claims of gains: "Bobby," said a boy to his companion, "you got a pretty bad licking yesterday." "Oh' no," said Bob, 'not near as bad as the one I got the day before."

SOME of our business men have an idea that enterprise consists in cluttering up their pavements with piles of boxes; the result of which is to annoy pedestrians and destoy ladies' dresses.

CELEBRATED

Horse and Cattle Powders.

This preparation, long and favorably known, will thoroughly reinvigorate broken-down and low-spirited horses, by strengthening and cleansing the stomach and intestines.
It is a sure preventive of all diseases incident to this animal, such as LUNG FEVER, GLANDERS, YELLOW WATER, HEAVES, COUGHS, DISTEMPER, FEVERS, FOUNDER LOSS OF APPETITE AND VITAL ENERGY, &c. Its use improves the wind, increases the appetite, gives a smooth and glossy skin—and transforms the miserable skeleton into a fine-looking and spirited horse.

To keepers of Cows this preparation is invaluable. It increases the quantity and improves the quality of the milk. It has been proven by actual experiment to increase the quantity of milk and cream twenty per cent. and make the butter firm and sweet. In fattening cattle, it gives them an appetite, loosens their hide, and makes them thrive much faster.

In all diseases of Swine, such as Coughs, Ulcers in the Lungs, Liver, &c., this article acts as a specific. By putting from one-half a paper to a paper in a barrel of swill the above diseases will be eradicated or entirely prevented. If given in time, a certain preventive and cure for the Hog Cholera.

DR. SCHENCK'S

PULMONIC SYRUP.

This great medicine cure for Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, the Proprietor, of Pulmonary Consumption, when it had assumed its most formidable aspect, and when speedy death appeared to be inevitable. His physicians pronounced his case incurable when he commenced the use of this simple but powerful remedy. His health was restored in a very short time, and no return of the disease has been apprehended, for all the symptoms quickly disappeared, and his present weight is more than two hundred pounds.

Since his recovery, he has devoted his attention exclusively to the cure of Consumption and the diseases which are usually complicated with it, and the cures effected by his medicines have been very numerous and truly wonderful. Dr. SCHENCK makes professional visits to several of the larger cities weekly, where he has a large concourse of patients, and it is truly astonishing to see poor consumptives that have to be lifted out of their carriages, and in a few months healthy, robust persons. Dr. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEAWEED TONIC, and MANDRAKE PILLS are generally all required in curing Consumption. Full directions accompany each, so that any one can take them without seeing Dr. SCHENCK, but when it is convenient it is best to see him. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer his fee is three dollars.

Please observe, when purchasing, that the two likenesses of the Doctor—one when in the last stage of Consumption, and the other as he now is, in perfect health—are on the Government stamp.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers. Price $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 the half dozen. Letters for advice should always be directed to Dr. SCHENCK'S Principal Office, 15 North 6th St., Philadelphia, Pa.
